"Come as strangers, live as friends"

Celebrate Earth Day

Earth Day is an important day for people to take the time out of their busy lives to consider the impact that humanity has on the environment and for taking steps to minimize these impacts, so we all can live happier and healthier lives in tune with nature.

The history of this day can be traced all the way back to April 22, 1970 when U.S. Senator Gaylord Nelson founded it as a way to bring to light serious environmental concerns and to address the need for environmental reform. Although it was originally foreseen as an American event, it was taken to the international stage in 1990 by Denis Hayes and is now active in 142 nations.

Planting Trees And Wildflowers-As a present to the planet, many people plant trees and wildflowers on Earth day .Celebrating With Music-In South Korea, the day is often marked with by children playing music on the instruments they have created using nothing but discarded items. Celebrations Through Art-All over the world, children often paint or draw pictures as school projects for this day. Many art galleries throughout the world also feature special exhibits that highlight the importance of this day.

Quote of the Month: "No winter lasts forever, no spring skips its turn. April is a promise that May is bound to keep and we know it" - Hal Borland
